

I'm working on compiling a list of organizations working combat online hate. I've broken them up into the categories of research, education, direct action (expository, community support, and counter speech), and legal aid.

Research based engagement

HateBase

- Hatebase is a web-based application which provides data through both a web interface and an open API. Core components of the Hatebase application are HateBot, a robot which interacts with external APIs to retrieve potential sightings, and HateBrain, a linguistic parser which automates some of the task of identifying hate speech acquired by HateBot. <https://www.hatebase.org/about>

Education/Fostering Digital citizenship/Inoculation

Radio La Benevolencija

- Radio La Benevolencija Humanitarian Tools Foundation (La Benevolencija) is a Dutch NGO that empowers groups and individuals who are the target of hate speech and ensuing acts. It broadcasts radio soaps, discussions and educational programmes, in combination with grass roots activities that provide citizens in vulnerable societies with knowledge on how to recognise and resist manipulation to violence and how to heal trauma, encouraging them to be active bystanders against incitement and violence.
- Uses entertainment that deals with the psychology of incitement to hate and violence in order to inoculate against hate speech and mass conflict

Direct Action

Direct Action Online

Expository

Racists Getting Fired

- <http://racistsgettingfired.tumblr.com/>
- Blog that posts screenshots of racist posts made on social media along with the poster's employer's info so that people contact the company to get them fired
 - <http://racistsgettingfired.tumblr.com/tagged/GOTTEN> these are the posts that have resulted in successful firings
- The blog has been criticized by some for being a form of undiscerning internet vigilantism that on occasion has gotten innocent people fired

https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/morning-mix/wp/2014/12/02/racists-getting-fired-exposes-weaknesses-of-internet-vigilantism-no-matter-how-well-intentioned/?utm_term=.77ffbcfddeae

Yes You're Racist

- Twitter account that identifies and retweets racist content (not a bot). A lot of the tweets they find start off with "I'm not racist but..."
- <https://twitter.com/yesyoureracist>

Yes You're Sexist

- Twitter account that identifies and retweets sexist content (not a bot). A lot of the tweets they find start off with "I'm not sexist but...". Inspired by @yesyoureracist
- <https://twitter.com/YesYoureSexist>

EverydaySexism

- "Documenting experiences of sexism, harassment and assault to show how bad the problem is & create solidarity."
- <https://twitter.com/EverydaySexism>

Bye Felipe

- Alexandra Tweten started Bye Felipe on Instagram in October 2014. The idea came from a discussion between women in a private Facebook group about terrible messages women receive from men when they say they aren't interested. Dozens of women posted screenshots of messages they had received and Alexandra decided to gather them all and post them on Instagram.

Community Support

Hollaback

HeartMob

- HeartMob is a platform that provides real-time support to individuals experiencing online harassment and empowers bystanders to act.
- co-founded by Hollaback! leaders Jae Cameron, Jill Dimond, Emily May, Debjani Roy, and Courtney Young
- <https://twitter.com/theheartmob>
- lheartmob.org
- Part of HeartMob's role is providing a place for people to report and document harassment across platforms and get help from the community. For this reason they have a useful database of people reporting their experiences of harassment as well as potential examples of bystander intervention

Counter Speech

- <https://dangerousspeech.org/> led by Susan Benesch, the group does research on dangerous speech around the world, catalogues it in their publications, and also proposes effective forms of counterspeech

<https://www.isdglobal.org/programmes/research-insight/publications/>

Legal Aid

Cyber Civil Rights Initiative

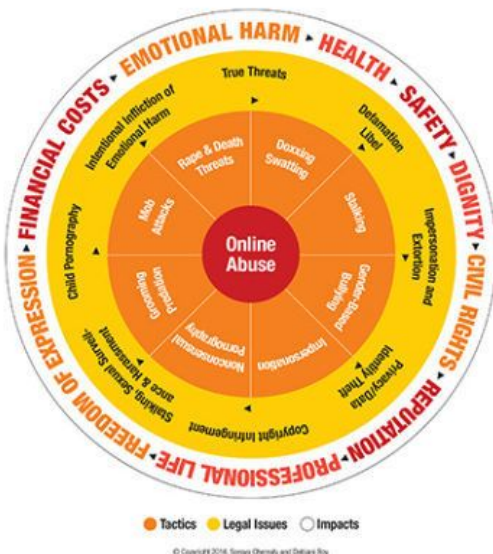

<https://www.cybercivilrights.org/welcome/>

- Mary Anne Franks Lawyer who writes about online sexual harassment @cyber civil rights initiative

Women's Media Center

has a super useful primer on Online Abuse where they list and define a variety of forms of online abuse:

www.womensmediacenter.com/speech-project/online-abuse-101/

Digital Rights Foundation

<https://digitalrightsfoundation.pk>

based in Pakistan, aims to strengthen protections for human rights defenders (HRDs), with a focus on women's rights, in digital spaces through policy advocacy & digital security awareness-raising.

- founded by lawyer and human rights activist Nighat Dad <https://twitter.com/nighatdad>
- They have a cyberharassment helpline
- <http://digitalrightsfoundation.pk/>
- between december 1 2016 and may 31 2017 they received 763 complaints in the form of calls emails and facebook messages. This report goes through nature of all these complaints. Maybe they could give us access to raw data (if blimized)?
<https://digitalrightsfoundation.pk/wp-content/uploads/2017/07/Cyber-Harassment-Helpline-Six-Month-Report.pdf>

Without My Consent

<http://www.withoutmyconsent.org>

- WMC provides legal and psychological resources for people who want to fight back against online harassment and privacy violations
- Founded by lawyers Erica Johnstone <https://twitter.com/ericajstone> and @VogeleLaw
- Their twitter page links to good weekly roundup of legal and social news related to non consensual pornography <https://twitter.com/withoutconsent>
- They surveyed 359 people about their experience with online Stalking, Harassment and Violations of Privacy <http://www.withoutmyconsent.org/blog/weve-got-data>
